The concept of a storehouse in the Bible represents a place of provision, abundance, & spiritual nourishment.

- Genesis 41:56: Joseph opened all the storehouses, selling to the Egyptians during the severe famine in the land of Egypt.
- Malachi 3:10: Bring the whole tithe into the storehouse, so that there may be food in My house, and test Me now in this, says the Lord of hosts, if I will not open for you the windows of heaven and pour out for you a blessing until it overflows.

A storehouse is a symbol of God's provision and care. As we work on our physical pantry, it is critical to remember that our spiritual pantry, or storehouse, is filled with God's goodness, care, and blessings. As we bring our offerings and trust in Him, we can experience the overflowing abundance of His provision.

Let the Lord Direct Your Steps!

What Foods to Store

1) foods you're not allergic to,

2) foods you're familiar with and know how to cook, and

3) foods that are packed in containers that are easy to access when you need them.

Glass Jars

For short-term storage, glass jars are an excellent, easy-access option for storing food. And they look nice in the pantry too!

- Buckets & Pails: Placing a heat-sealed mylar bag with oxygen absorber into a bucket with a regular lid, is the best way to store food for an extended time.

- Plastic buckets/pails are great for keeping out water and rodents. 5-Gallon size buckets can hold up to 37 pounds of wheat or corn. Less dense products such as macaroni may fill the bucket up but only weigh 21 pounds. Beans generally weigh 33-35 pounds in a 5-Gallon pail.
- A 2-gallon bucket may make handling more comfortable. Choose a size you can manage safely when it's full.

- Lids: Gamma Seal Lids are very convenient and keep your food safe from rodents and moisture. If you need easy access to what's in the bucket, yet want it to be secure, the Gamma Seal Lid is a marvelous invention. These are also a favorite for folks who get into these buckets frequently for such things as animal feed, pet food, etc.

- For Long-term Storage when it's important to keep oxygen out for the duration, it's best to go with regular lids. They're made for extended storage... not for easy frequent access.

- Plastic lids attach to the plastic bucket and simply require pounding them on with a hammer, using a piece of wood to protect the plastic while hammering.

Easy Access Meals in A Bucket

- Packing 25 pounds of pinto beans with oxygen absorbers in a giant mylar bag into a five-gallon plastic pail is one way to approach food preparedness. But, our experience through the food-storage flurry of 1998-99 (Y2K) gave a new perspective.
- Try putting a variety of dry foods, seasonings, and salt into the bucket (in their properly packaged mylar bags, of course). Everything you need for meals is there in reasonable amounts.
- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pQ3sprjlw5g>
- Picture a bucket with an easy-open Gamma-seal lid. Inside pack five pounds of your favorite beans, five pounds of rice or millet, five pounds of barley or other grain, a pound of mineral-rich salt, your favorite seasoning mixes (like taco or chili) and spices (like black pepper). Opening up these smaller packages gives you the liberty to enjoy as-needed.

Rotating Stock

Don't just store-it-and-forget it. Learn to cook it.
Eat from it. Use it. Restock it. Keep it fresh.

- Foods naturally age. Beans can take longer to cook after they are several years old, for example.
- Create a long-term stash that;
  1. will last for the length of time you choose to prepare for, and
  2. contains as much food as you would like to be able to eat before adding fresher stock.
    - For example, if you want to always have food on hand at any time to last 3 months, yet you want to eat from it for one month before restocking it, you would need 4 months worth of food total to start.
