

Greenfield Water has been involved in research and development of structured water systems since 2009. Structured water can be defined as water in its natural and balanced state free from contaminants both physical and energetic which has been subjected to natural vortex actions and beneficial information transfer.

Natural vortex actions and beneficial information transfer are not concepts presently understood or used by the mainstream water treatment industry as these concepts are not taught within our academic system.

Greenfield Water mimics natural vortex actions and beneficial information transfer by creating a vortexing flow tube and as water flows through the tube it is subjected to energetic emanations of all the elements of the periodic table which are placed within a sealed cartridge which is installed into the vortexing flow tube.

Our agricultural water structuring units have undergone trials throughout the world for the past 13 years consistently showing the following benefits for plants, animals and the environment are impressive.

- 30% water savings for irrigated crops
- 10% to 50% increase in crop yields
- 30% reduction in chemical, fertilizer and soil supplements
- Reduction in water bacteria
- Improved soil conditions
- Reduction of molds, pests and disease
- Calmer animals
- Improved hoof and coat health for animals
- Less water consumption for animals
- Animals consistently prefer structured water
- Overall improvement in health

Although human trials have never taken place, for over a decade we have received testimonials and anecdotal stories all espousing similar results such as:

- Enhanced energy levels
- Improved digestion
- Better sleep
- More restful
- Improved skin conditions
- Feeling more hydrated
- Water tastes better
- Decreased pain

In 2017 we coined the term, "Structured Water Filter". A structured water filter incorporates all the components necessary to bring water back to it's intended state as God created it. These components consist of filtering, mineralization, structuring and energization along with a descaling option. We now offer structured water filters for wide variety of whole house and kitchen applications.

For more information and images please visit our website and copy and paste whatever you would like. I have linked each category for you:

- 1) Portable
- 2) Kitchen
- 3) Whole House
- 4) Stand Alone Water Filtration
- 5) Agrarian Systems for Farms (contact us for more information)